"Rice: the Problem Solver!"

Colin Garner, Senior Vice President of Sales, RiceBran Technologies

This innocuous, hypo-allergenic, sustainable grain can be your 'ace in the hole' with scores of new uses

- Batter and Breading - Reduced fat uptake applications
- Energy Drinks - great tasting natural source of B-complex vitamins and other nutrients
- Dressings, baking and frying - your 'good' oil choice
- Pizza dough – Fermentation accelerant
- Meat emulsions – Yield improvement
- Sauces and Gravies – Thickening agent
- Cereals, Breakfast Bars, Pasta – Fiber source
- Specialty Food Products – Calorie reduction

Get info and taste samples to help you solve YOUR problems!

"Success with Integrated Pest Management for Global Food Safety Initiative Environments"

Chris DelRossi, Founder, Managing Director
Food and Drug and the Bug, LLC

Participants will enjoy learning the finer nuances and just how simple it is to oversee a successful Integrated Pest Management (IPM) program in the GFSI environment. Chris will bring seven "take-aways" that the participant will want to bring back to their facility to train their staff and succeed in this sometime confusing subject. This will be prove to be a fun and interactive discussion.

"Where Does Food Innovation Come From? Inspiring and managing your company's intellectual property and new product pipeline "

Devin S. Morgan, Co-Founder
Knull Group, Eat. Drink.Law. blog

The food industry is often criticized for a lack of innovation and resulting high performance firms. Industry apologists point out that food demand is relatively fixed and that food is an essentially conservative market...small incremental changes and scrapping over market share in well-worn product categories is all there is. The explanation makes sense (in a whiny sort of way), but it's wrong.

Innovation is everywhere. We live in a time of unparalleled consumer food awareness and a consuming public essentially dissatisfied with its food choices. Dissatisfaction means market opportunity for the companies able to fulfill the unmet need.

Food is fashion. Food is identity. Food is health. Food is political. And the many roles, channels, and consumer niches for food mean that there is room for everyone to innovate (and a few to truly dominate by doing so). In this session we will look at the many sources of innovation for food companies and how you can inspire your business to generate ideas, improvements, intellectual property, and new products to fuel your success.

"Selling Your Product! A compete guide to the Specialty Food Market"

Janis Grover, Kathryn Deibel
MetaBrand Corp.

Hold on to your hats! In this whirlwind presentation, experts with years of experience will give you every detail you need to have a successful product launch. From identifying your target consumer, to selecting packaging, working with brokers and distributors and much, much more!

For anyone who wants to see their hard work come to fruition, this is an hour you won't want to miss!

"Color Theory and the Applications for Food" Dwight Davis, Konica Minolta/Sensing Americas

In the food and beverage industries, color and appearance are key ingredients to a product's success. When a food's color is off or is different than what consumers expect, their minds tell them that it tastes different too. This is because color influences how consumers perceive the taste, quality, and freshness of a food product. In this seminar, Dwight Davis, a color expert from Konica Minolta Sensing Americas, will detail the fundamentals of color science, how to properly measure and evaluate color from raw material to final product, and the components to an effective and efficient color process for controlling the color quality of food and beverage products.
