Seminar Sessions

Gallery, ground level

2PM - 3PM: "Clean Labeling"

Leaslie Carr, Marketing Manager, Wholesome, Ingredient Incorporated

The trend towards clean label foods is on the rise. More and more products are being positioned as "simple", "pure", "natural", "organic", or "additive/preservative free". Formulating clean label foods can be challenging in the absence of clear regulatory guidelines. In addition, the availability of clean label functional ingredients may limit a formulator's tool box. This session will address some of the challenges in formulating clean label foods and present opportunities to formulate in this space via the use of innovative clean label ingredients. Case studies will be utilized to discuss formulation challenges in baked goods, salad dressing, and yogurts while presenting opportunities for developing clean label formulations.

1PM - 2PM: "Functional Foods: The Good, The Bad, and the Ugly"

Dr. Ron Pegg, Associate Professor, University of Georgia

An update of the status of the ever-confusing functional food sector in the U.S. Dr. Pegg will discuss what functional food/nutraceutical ingredients seem to be in demand by the industry in food formulations and which are not doing as well.

12PM - 1PM: "Natural Antimicrobials, Mother Nature Knows Best"

Rick Hull, Vice President, IsoAge Technologies

There are a wide range of antimicrobials found in nature with applications in food preservation, safety and product stability. Over the last decade, consumer demand for simple, easy to understand labels has exploded. To meet this demand for clean label, consumer friendly ingredients, food manufacturers and culinary specialists have turned to the same solutions their ancestors found in nature to preserve their food and ensure a safe food supply
